ROSE'S REBUFF TO COMPLAINING MANOA CITIZEN

Sheriff Asks Him, "Well, What Do You Expect Me to Do?"
Lawns Trampled

"Well, what do you expect me to do?" is the answer received by a Manoa citizen upon complaint to Sheriff Rose that horses were trampling beautiful Manoa yards unrestrained and unimpounded.

The Manoa citizen, a businessman, given scant satisfaction when he complained to the sheriff, he said today.

"I had already telephoned two or three times to the police department and nothing was done," he explained, in telling the story. "Meanwhile our yards were being trampled frequently. Finally I telephoned to the sheriff. He asked me what we expected him to do and I could get no satisfaction at all. In fact, he didn't seem to know nor care anything about the matter."

"Then I telephoned to Deputy Asch and he attended to it immediately. He came up right away and I am satisfied he will do the best he can."

Inquiry made by the Star-Bulletin at the city hall today showed that the matter of looking after stray animals is directly under the sheriff. The following statement was made at the city clerk's office:

"Formerly the handling of strays was under the board of supervisors, being handled by the road department, as authorized by Act 125 of the revised laws of 1907. Later the board turned the entire matter over to the sheriff, who appoints an estray officer, with a special salary. Upon complaint at the police station, immediate attention is supposed to be given, and if the estray is not available, mounted patrolmen are supposed to look after the complaint. When the stray animal is found, it is taken to the nearest pound."

"The police department is the proper department to receive complaints of this character," it was stated, "and all of the regulation of strays is under the control of the sheriff."

GRIEG PROGRAM BY SCAVENIUS

Much interest has been aroused among local music lovers by the promised pianoforte program of Grieg's music, which will feature the first recital to be given in Honolulu by Scavenius, who will be heard this evening at the Alexander Young Hotel roof garden.

Scavenius, who arrived in Honolulu about a month ago, has so far not appeared in public, but those who have heard him privately say that both his temperament and ability make him well qualified as an interpreter of the great Scandinavian composer's works.

NEW CLUB TO STUDY REAL REQUIREMENTS FOR GOOD CITIZENS

In order that the young men of today may learn the qualifications necessary for good citizenship, the Y. M. C. A. has started a new club called "Worth While What Not Club." The club, which consists of many members of different nationalities, meets every Friday evening at 8 o'clock to study the story of American government.

The meetings have been divided into two classes, one taking up the work of civics, and the second devoted to current topics of the day. Each member is asked to talk on subjects that pertain to better citizenship, and many compositions have been written by the members. Monthly contests will be held in spelling, composition and civics.

WEEK OF PRAYER BEING OBSERVED BY ALL NATIONS

Throughout the civilized world the Y. M. C. A. and many churches are celebrating the "World-wide Week of Prayer" this week. The local Y. M. C. A. has planned to observe the week and noon meetings will be held every day at Cooke Hall, where the association men and friends will pray from 12:30 to 12:50 o'clock. Short addresses will be given in the lobby of the Y. M. C. A. every evening from 7 to 7:15.

Canon Ault of the Episcopal church will be the speaker this evening, and each evening one of the pastors of the local churches will talk. Rev. A. A. Eberole of the Central Union church will talk on Tuesday evening, and Dr. W. H. Fry of the Methodist church will be the speaker on Wednesday evening. Various clubs and Bible classes at their weekly meetings will observe the prayer hours and all association men will be asked to join in the movement of prayer during the week.

SCARCITY OF DYE STUFFS MAY MAKE ARMY BIG SAVING

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Uncle Sam may find that the European war has saved him a few hundred thousand dollars in the prices of uniforms if the present tests of material are successful. The shortage in dyestuffs has caused the war department some concern, and the next set of uniforms for our gallant soldier boys is apt to be made of naturally colored goods. This means that the annual expenditure of $6,000,000 for the army, most of which goes into the clothing of regulars, will probably be cut a great deal.

Since the beginning of the war the quartermaster's department has found the securing of the regulation olive drab goods, of which the regular uniform is made, a difficult proposition. The dye, which is manufactured in Germany, cannot be brought across the ocean because of Great Britain's blockade of German commerce. Naturally some substitute had to be found.

The quartermaster began to look around. He was up a pretty big tree until Brig.-gen. Henry G. Sharpe noticed that a mixture of uncolored wool made a neutral color, just the shade that was wanted to hide our boys from any fancied foe.

Make Fine Disguise.

The wool of the black and white lambs or sheep when properly mixed gives an odd brownish gray color that would make a great disguise for land forces. The enemy might circle all day over the field in which a thousand soldiers were hidden and not know they were there unless the men indiscreetly showed their faces.

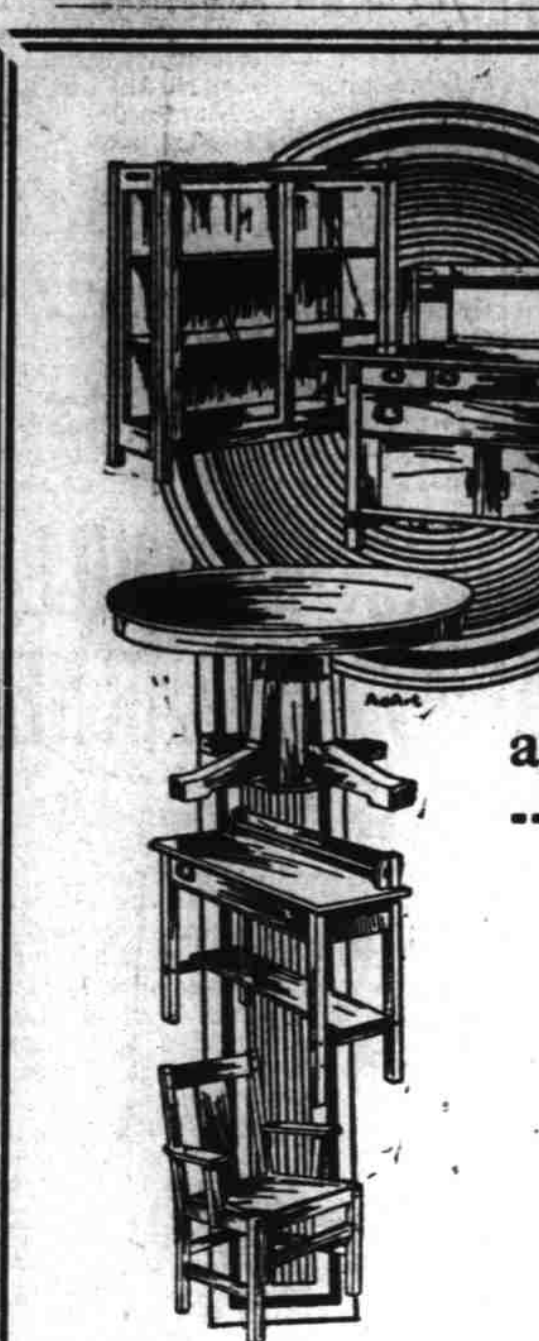

Black wool as it comes from the animal is varied in its shading from a dirty brown to a jet black. If mixed and woven with the white it gives a color that is a cross between the earth and a fog.

To fit out a new recruit now costs nearly $150, including dress, service and khaki uniforms. This can be done for $100 with the new goods, it is estimated.

Tests are now being carried on, and if it is found that the material can stand the same wear and scraping as the present goods it is more than probable that it will be adopted for the regulation uniform. The absence of chemicals found in dyed goods from this cloth ought to give it a greater tensile strength, so that it will stand more wear and stretching than ordinary material. The shade and texture of the goods are such as appeal to civilians, but if it is adopted by the army it is possible that the war department may monopolize the entire output so as to make it distinctive of the service.

Blanche Ring is a reel enthusiast. She was so anxious to be "A Yankee Girl" in reality after having achieved success in film play of that name that she did some speeding but the judge acquitted her, her reason was so Paramount.

Haven't you had a "Myrtle Stedman Special?" Everyone back in Los Angeles is ordering them and they're great! All whipped cream and what not. If your soda dispenser will not serve you one, tell him he's behind the times.

Over in England they are finding people for accepting treats. "Fatty" otherwise known as Roscoe Arbuckle, wishes something like that would be started in America. He forgot he was using a connected phone when he called for "Police! Help!" and got it, a patrol wagonful. Of course, Fatty had to do the right thing. When Jack London was in Honolulu he stated he was in favor of saloons, but he thought there should be some law forbidding treating at the bar. Jack must have been up against the same proposition.

Henry Ainly, appearing in "Brother Officers" at the Liberty this week-end, is a thoroughbred Englishman. All the cast supporting him are English. The scenes were all taken in England. There is much significance in this fact. Most of our motion pictures are made in California, or else in New York City and vicinity. The scenery is beautiful, to be sure, but it is all American. To get into some foreign land for material in motion pictures is an education to those who follow the movies. Honoluluans who saw "Bootless Baby" last month on the Liberty screen will agree that the play was one of the best presented this year. It was entirely English. The cast was the best that England knows in stagehands. The scenery was different. The actors were strangely different and they were interesting. The scenes depicting English army life were unusually so, and the drama was intensely sympathetic. We should be grateful to the Paramount corporation for accepting foreign features occasionally, as a diversion to our regular program. "Brother Officers," the attraction for this week Thursday, Friday and Saturday, a story of British army and society life, is convincingly portrayed by a British company. The actors give it touches that no American company would be likely to effect. The race-track scenes at the start are full of life and color and the fight with Afghan tribesmen in India is vividly realistic and the later quieter action in English barracks and English manor houses is even more dramatic.

The "rankers" determination to sacrifice himself a second time to the gentleman officer shows that he, at last, has become a real gentleman.

WEST POINT DESERTERS JOIN ARMY OF CANADA; WILL FIGHT FOR ALLIES

Information has come from the superintendent of the military academy to the war department of the desertion from the detachment of engineers at West Point of five enlisted men, who, it is learned, have joined the military force in Canada, according to the Army and Navy Register.

It has been suggested that steps be taken to prevent desertions for this purpose. There is no evidence that any effort has been made to recruit men for Canada other than the letters from the deserters addressed to their former comrades at West Point. One such letter has been forwarded to Washington and reports that those who have joined the Canadian forces receive $30 a month, with an additional $30 if a man is married; that if the soldier is not killed during the war, the government will give him 100 acres of land; and the writer concludes with the postscript: "Tell the gang it's O. K."

An export total of approximately $75,000,000 is the indicated record of American manufacturers of cotton goods in the fiscal year 1915, while imports of cotton manufacturers will probably fall below $50,000,000 making the balance of trade on the export side about $25,000,000; as against an import balance in every earlier year in the country's history, save 1915, when the excess of exports in this group was about $1,000,000.

The short apple crop in England should create a large demand for American fruit. One estimate places the yield of the yearly apples at one-third of a crop and late apples at one-half a crop.
